ONE GOOD RESULT.

One good result is certain to be secure by the conviction of the election inspectors who will form a fair percentage of the prison population before another general election is held. Very few if any inspectors will be found who will violate the Election laws next November, whatever may be the orders or the hints of the basses. They will rather give no pretense or excuse, much less a justification of charges against them. This is not because of any reawakenany respect for the law, now that they know what the law is. It is because their leaders have left them in the lurch, without an attempt at their protection, and have gone to the Southern grange groves or the mild and balmy breezes of the Pacific coast, while their deserted little fizz into the future.

His crime was one that strikes at the very foundation of a republican government. His punishment was demanded for the protection of the most precious interests of the American cittzen. But everybody must regret the commission of the crime and the neces sity for the punishment.

There is, however, no justification for the morbid sympathy manifested on the convicted man's behalf or for the efforts made to save him from the consequences of his great and unpardonable offense Neither was there reason in the eloquent appeal made to the Judge to suspend sentence upon him during good behavior on the ground of his unimpeached char

"THE AMAZONS."

Pinero's "farcical remance" entitled The Amazons," presented last night for the first time in this country at the Lyceum Theatre, is an oddity. New fork cries out for the odd, the eccentric and the novel; consequently there seems be no reason why "The Amazons" should not be a success. It has a charm ing first act, and an uproariously funny third. The second is tedious and long drawn out. Pinera begins "The Amazons" fantastically, as a sort of pretty, whimsical conceit, but as he goes on he evidently finds that it is not easy to continue the work of fantasy. He introduces broadly farcical characters, and in the last act it is downright farce-comedy of a somewhat higher order than 'A Country Sport," be it well under

Good to Be Tall.

To the Editor: In reply to the "Anglous Brooklynite," who wishes to know if she is a glanteen, I will say that I do not by any means consider myself a giantess. Although just fifteen, I am about five feet ten inches tall. I am very slender, and I reatly admire tail and slender young ladies. It very convenient to be tall, especially when here is anything to be seen, and when I took mit of much delighful coloring, and a necks and standing on their tip-toes. Treatment of Children Not many grown people would acknow edge that they were really kind to children only in a careless manner. Yet it is a sober matter to watch others and see how many times they try a little one's temper by inattentions to its wants be sneers and sarcasms, and by disappointments that could be availed. Some times a child's disposition will become completely ruined by such usage, and small marvel if it does. Novelties In Tea Gowns.

"At Home" Days.

The custom of the women of the Na-tional capital regarding their "at home" days might be followed in other cities to advantage. All society women in a certain section of the city receive calls on the same day of the week. On Monday, for instance, the fashionable visit-ing tide sets toward Capitol Hill, and thirty or forty calls can easily be made in an afternoon, so little time is lost in travelling the streets of the "City of Magnificent Distances.

Uses of Cranberries. Cranberries are abundant this year, and should take the place in the cuisine which has been given over to apples in the past, these being few and high-priced this season. All fruits have a nedicinal value, and the cranberry ranks as an anti-scorbutic. It is a blood-cleanser; bruised and heated, not cooked, it has a healing effect on humors. One cut in half and bound on a corn will cure it in one or more applications. It will be equally efficacious in the case of pimples on the face.

As an article of food the cranberry is too little known. Many families know it only in the form of sauce, but it may be served in many other ways. A cooling, refreshing drink may be made by boiling the berries in waters double the measure of berries. Boll until the juice has been thoroughly extracted, sweeten with one-half pound of sugar to the pint of juice and bottle hot, This should be served in the same manner as raspberry and current

New Spring Goods. The new materials for Spring weartare in the shops, and the Fall roses are hardly done blooming. Grenadine is to be worn again, and the new designs are exquisitely lovely. Some of them train tate moire, and many have the prevailing shot effect. French challie is also to be much in favor. Some of it is woven with bayadere silk stripes to sim-ulate rows of ribbon. Swiss muslin and quantities of ribbon will be worn. Men think because a dress can be washed it is cheap, so they are fond of telling women that they look well in white The fact of the matter is, white dresse in the city are a gold mine to the washer woman, and they cost in the long-ren more than silk.

To Mark Handkerchiefs Very few people have the knack of riting on linen so that they can mark handkerchiefs neatly. Yet the marking an absolute necessity, unless one would lose one's belongings with every weekly washing. One woman solved the difficulty by embroidering her initial in one corner in the old-fashioned, simple way, and in an unobtrusive, small letter that does not detract from the appear-lettering.

The Fur Season. This is essentially a fur season, All sorts of eccentricities are noted, from the leopard skin tacket (which is by no means so seldom to be remarked as it should be) to the lovely effects in black and white achieved by ermine muff and stole. It is flagrantly bad taste, however, to combine this last with any other sort of fur. A pretty girl was out on a promenade, recently, who wore s handsome green velvet coat trimmed with bear. Over this was an ermine tippet. Each article of her wardrobe was rich, but the whole result was shabby. Bables' coats and bonnets are charming of white corded silk and trimmed with the narrowest border of mink. From this baby to its grand-

Trimmings.

Bottled Milk.

This is pre-eminently a day of trimmings. Tailor-made simplicity is no longer in vogue, and, if fashion and rumors of fashion prove true prophets even spangles, heretofore regarded as selonging to the ballet are to be one of the features of the coming season, both in millinery and dress trimmings. Black spangles, gold spangles and dull red and green spangles will prevail. Spangles covering entire surfaces, spangles in rows, spangles put on in patterns and spangles outlining the design of the material. Hats are to be adorned with them, especially the new flats of felt or tions in black and white headgear.
